

The Committee for the Economics of Education of the German Economic Association for the first time awards its Scientific Award:

Prize for the Best

Dissertation in the Economics of Education 2013/14

Deadline
for nominations:
12/31/2014

The prize of 2,000 Euro honors the best dissertation completed during 2013 or 2014 that deals with a topic in the economics of education of relevance to German-speaking countries.

The prize aims to promote outstanding research in the economics of education and to provide it with public visibility. Apart from scientific excellence, societal relevance is an important selection criterion.

For further information see:
www.cesifo.de/boea.html

The prize money has been donated by the Roland Berger Foundation.

